

From the Pastor

Dear friends,

The spirit that animates the Canterbury United Community Church -- "We're all in this together ... and isn't that good!" -- is alive and well throughout the community. But that's only because so many people in town share their time, energy and talents with others.

Think of the Canterbury Fair, 4-H, Scouts, youth sports, the Fourth of July, Halloween, the Thanksgiving dinner and Easter breakfast ... we could go on.

Last month we wrote to ask that you support the church financially, by contributing in support of this newsletter and the Parish House, both hubs of community activity, as well as the church and its outreach efforts. There's still time! The pledge form for donations appears on Page 4.

But there are many other ways in which you -- and all of us -- can give in support of the church and its work in the community. We are speaking of that time, energy and talent. That's why you will find a pledge form for donations of time on Page 4 too.

Giving our time isn't easy, because we're all busy, but it's that commitment that generates the Canterbury spirit. It lives only because people and organizations in Canterbury continue to devote themselves to fostering a living community defined by mutual care.

As members of the Canterbury church, we strive to contribute to this spirit, empowered by the teachings of Christ to respond to community needs and play our part in enriching the life of our community together.

It comes down to this: the great diversity and spirit that is represented in Canterbury is a true gift -- and an opportunity to continue to grow in community together. We hope you will join with us in supporting this vision through our endeavors. Please consider completing one -- or both! -- of the forms on Page 4. We hope to hear from you!

Gratefully,

The Rev. Sara Rossigg, Amanda Grappone Osmer, and Mark Travis
Canterbury United Community Church stewardship committee

Another successful Canterbury Halloween Night!

We had a record number of people attend this year's Town Halloween! Wow! It is always amazing how everything comes together in the end. Thank you to everyone who helped make this night happen:

All those who baked sugar cookies and/or donated sprinkles and frosting. All those who donated candy, stickers, pencils, animals, monetary donations! We had lots of donations this year, which is the ONLY reason we didn't run out much earlier, so THANK YOU ALL. Marcelle Pethic and Barbara Slayton for manning the cookie table.

So many to thank: The Canterbury Rascals for carving the pumpkins that lighted the way. Apple Hill Farm and Hackleboro Orchards for donations of pumpkins. Such community support! A big thank you to Hackleboro Orchards for donating the apple cider again! You guys are the best! Jane and David Balshaw for judging the pumpkin carving contest.

Our costumed candy distributors: Nancy Roy, Lisa Carlson, Charlie Comey and family, Lois Scribner and Howard Moffet, Pastor Sara, Sue and Ted LeClair, Mike Bertalone and Maureen, Susan Folke in the Not So Spooky House, Rick Crockford, Lynda Moore and friends in the Model A Truck, and John Scarponi for the wonderful smores! Thank you to Brian Magoon for apple bobbing and apple stacking in the Town Hall.

Our Spooky Story Readers in the Library: Debbie Snow, Flo Woods, Rose Howe, and Officer Tom Bibeau.

All those who helped with set-up and clean-up: The Canterbury United Community Church Youth Group who put the lights on the gazebo and helped bring up supplies from the Town Hall Basement, Emma Galonski, Claire and Jack Crockford, and the McDonald Family. A special thank you to my husband, Rick Crockford, for all his help.

The Fire Department and Police Department for keeping an eye out for safety.

We receive a grant from the Canterbury Fund each year which helps cover a portion of the costs. We depend on additional donations of candy, supplies, and volunteers to make this night happen. Please consider helping next year. It can be as simple as picking up cider or baking cookies.

Come join us! It takes a haunted village to do this! Contact Laura Crockford at canterburytownemail@gmail.com.

A Woodsy Adventure

Passing a trail head (or put-in) frequently in my travels always gets my attention. My curiosity becomes irrevocably piqued! Just before Rt. 140 crosses the Winnepesaukee River and then comes to Rt. 3 and exit 20, there's both a trail head and a put-in. If you turn left onto Shaker Road they're immediately on the right by the Holiday Inn.

Anne and I tried the put-in several years back and paddled up river to Silver Lake. The Winnepesaukee River has significant current. There's no human sign along the river, but the traffic noise never ceases. Most of the shore line of Silver Lake, however, has camps. We did find a small beach where we could have lunch. Not a habit forming paddle.

Recently I finally got to explore the trails. They start from a woods road through not particularly attractive, heavily flagged and cut over woods. There's a sign "river trail" branching right shortly. Later, I was more interested in finding a well-marked trail up hill to a possible viewpoint, hopefully a loop. This area between the Winnepesaukee River and the Spaulding Youth Center, at the height of land, contains a spaghetti bowl of trails, made, but minimally maintained by the Center. I'd forgotten their map, but I doubt if it would have helped much. So I was checking my compass bearings religiously, which turned out to be a good thing.

After ½ hour, I found a blazed trail gradually uphill through interesting mixed woods and rock outcroppings. 20 minutes of focused trail finding brought me to the back side of the Youth Center and a sign discouraging further progress.

I then followed some more white blazes along the height of land to a road with some good outlooks which ascended to the start of fresh blue blazes to the right. These soon ran into a major blow down. The route was obviously not yielding me a loop, so it was time to bushwack.

Initially I followed a stone wall. When it ended I started paying close attention to my compass, heading down the fall line, and, as I came down onto the level, following the flow of streams, which had to run into the river.

Fortunately, I enjoy this sort of thing, though I rarely do it by choice anymore. My interest was increased by the lateness of the afternoon and my lack of a light. It was taking longer than I thought it would to reach the woods road. As it turned out, I reached the road just before the trail head! Good navigating and some luck? When I got home I dug out my headlamp and my compass with attached whistle.

If you go, bring your navigating skills (and equipment). And be prepared for the noise from the interstate.

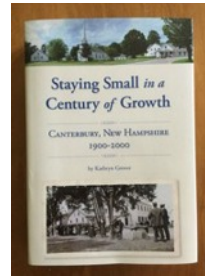

From most any point in this piece of woods you'd come to a road or field edge in less than an hour if you don't deviate from a straight line. I was only bushwhacking ½ hour, through nice open woods.

I promise my next hiking suggestion will be less adventurous.

STRATEGIC PLANNING

The trustees will be meeting in early January for their annual strategic planning meeting to review the past year's progress, assess plans for 2018 and establish goals and objectives for the future. Particular items up for discussion include developing strategies for including young people, particularly students, in taking an interest in and being part of the various programs of the Society, as well as reviewing the structure of the Society to determine how we may better serve our mission statement and the town. Please remember that we welcome all interested (new or current) residents to become involved and participate. A report of our discussions will be published following our meeting.

Good news! The water line to all the center buildings has been replaced with shut-offs at each building. Thank you to the Highway Dept. for completing the work, especially during the heavy rain. The disturbed areas will be loamed and seeded in the spring.

The Highway and Fire Departments were kept busy during the windstorm on Oct. 30. Most roads were opened by Tuesday morning. Thank you to both departments for their extended efforts during and after the storm.

The Selectmen accepted Moderator Ken Jordan's resignation. Ken and Joyce are moving to Florida. The Selectmen thanked Ken for his service to the town. ## FIRE DEPARTMENT NEWS

The October 30 windstorm was a significant event for the Canterbury Fire Department. During the storm event, members responded to over 45 emergency incidents. Most of the calls involved live wires down from damaged trees and utility poles.

Other incidents involved vehicles driving into utility wires, electrical problems in buildings, carbon monoxide and fire alarms and medical events. Members using saws opened some roads when the trees down did not involve electrical wires. This did allow residence to find an alternate route out of town that morning. Members operated from the Towns Emergency Operations Center to coordinate our activities with Highway and Police Department. Much appreciation to the members that responded, some working over 30 hours to provide service.

We have one new member this month. Robert Basha from New Rd. Bob is an EMT and FF I with significant experience. We welcome him aboard and look forward to working with him.

As the Holiday Season Approaches a few safety facts.

- Nearly half of decoration fires happen because decorations are placed too close to heat source
- Two of every five home decoration fires are started by candles.
- Please remember to put out candles when you leave the room or before going to bed.

The members of Canterbury Fire Department wish you a safe Holiday Season.
